Brief Description of WAIS Sources

A brief description of the content of many WAIS sources on the Internet, grouped into relevant categories.

Compiled by:

frontdesk@wais.com

This is a listing of the WAIS databases currently registered with the directory-of-servers at quake.think.com. While this is not a comprehensive listing of all publically-available WAIS sources, it should prove to be a valuable research aid. This document is updated daily. We regret any errors, either factual or typographical. Corrections should be sent to frontdesk@wais.com.

This document was inspired by a great humanitarian effort by Chris Christoff at Bond University in Australia. Thanks, Chris!
